the invisible side of art

Utopia of an invisible museum, Cabinet de regard: waiting flowerbed, 2010, Castello di Jerago, Italy

MicroCollection Museum

MicroCollection Museum was founded on 24th May 1990 when its Director Elisa Bollazzi was visiting the British Pavilion at the Venice Biennale and, almost by chance, picked up a few fragments that had accidentally fallen onto the floor from a fantastic work by Anish Kapoor.

These “microparticles”, overlooked by everyone else, represented the intuition of a new form of creation. From then on, the search was for new “micro-acquisitions” that would otherwise be trodden underfoot and chucked out with the rubbish, re-experiencing each time the magic of that special moment of intuition, the creative act.

Microcollection now counts hundreds of art-particles that can be viewed under the microscope, so the public can sense the invisible and become aware of the creative freedom.

Dozens of spontaneous collaborators constantly help enrich the collection.

Collection

MicroCollection owns an important collection of contemporary art. In addition to a number of prominent movements such as Fluxus, Pop Art, Minimal Art, Conceptual Art and Arte Povera, many renowned international artists are represented in the collection.

Important works by artists like Joseph Beuys, Daniel Buren, Tony Cragg or Richard Long and major Italian artists like Alberto Burri, Piero Gilardi, Aldo Mondino, Giuseppe Penone, Giulio Paolini, and many others, are also present in the collection.

Exhibitions

A basic item in the MicroCollection Museum's plans for growth is the organization of exhibitions and events.

Pivotal in these itinerant exhibitions are the Cabinets de regard, which are simple, portable, compact “observation chambers”, fitted with a microscope so viewers can sense the invisible and see the true essence of art by changing the way they look at the “art system”.

The exhibitions will describe the various main tendencies in the history of contemporary art.

Quinton's et al. (1993) also emphasize that the relationship between the mean number of species per site and the mean number of individuals per species is not necessarily linear. In fact, the relationship is often non-linear, with the mean number of species per site increasing more rapidly than the mean number of individuals per species (Quinton et al., 1993).

Art sowings

In 2008 Elisa Bollazzi gave life to the so-called Art sowings, areas cultivated with microparticles of artworks whose titles refer to the botanical world, such as The 3-metre tree by Giuseppe Penone, Watermelons by Piero Gilardi, Garden by Paul McCarthy, and so on.

The public sits on benches set nearby and waits for an utopic art-garden to grow in a thought-provoking space, a meeting point where the artwork starts a process that stimulates creativity, enlarges the boundaries of art and changes the way we look at the “art system”.

In 2011, the so-called project Art sowings on demand, based on collaboration and faith, helps creating a cultural-artistic humus in parks and gardens in Italy and abroad.
